

Research Seminars for Faculty

Purpose of Research Seminars for Faculty

The purpose of these two seminars is to prepare faculty members to attain the ability to publish in “A” journals. These seminars are broken into two related parts.

Part I: Conducting research. “A” journals are expecting increasingly sophisticated research. Correspondingly, these practices are beginning to influence “B” level journals. We will discuss theoretical expectations, sample considerations, and statistical considerations.

Part II: Preparing a manuscript for submission. This seminar discusses the art of writing in English Speaking journals. I will discuss some common flaws in writing. I would encourage those who attend this session to submit a sample research paper of their writing in English before the seminar. All my knowledge suggests the Portuguese writing style and Academic writing style in English are VERY different. I will offer numerous suggestions to improve the writing style to increase the chances of a paper being accepted.
